DIED.

At the Regimental Hospital, Covington, Kentucky, on Saturday, the 6th of February, 1864, of Malaria, Thomas C. Matthews, of Co. G, 1st Regiment Ohio Heavy Artillery, son of Phineas Matthews, of Vinton, Gallia co., O. Aged nineteen years.

His remains were brought by his father to Vinton, where, before a very impressive service by Rev. R. Beane, from Proverbs 4 and 18, "But the path of the just is as a shining light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day." The remains were interred with military honors at 10 o'clock.

The deceased was, in all things, a goodly young man; the pride of his family, and the admiration of his friends. In the summer of 1863, though a boy, he volunteered in the 60th Regiment O. V. I., commanded by Col. Trimble, was taken prisoner at Vicksburg, paroled, sent to Annapolis, thence to Chicago, where he was with his Regiment, was discharged, and afterwards exchanged. In June, 1863, he volunteered as a soldier in the 1st Regiment Ohio Heavy Artillery, for a term of three years. After entering the service in this Regiment, his department was such as to commend him to the favorable consideration of Col. Hawley, the Commandant, who detailed him as his orderly, in which position he discharged every duty with promptness and fidelity, until about the 19th of January, when he was taken sick of Malaria, and pneumonia, with which he lingered until the 6th of February, when, while repeating the Lord's Prayer, he was promoted from the patriotic service of earth, to the celestial army of patriots on high. Thus have we another martyr to the great cause of freedom and enfranchisement.

Proudly do the national patriots recall the high deeds of valor of our gallant sons—With unflinching courage, and heroic bravery, they have borne themselves in every contest, and whether on the tented field or in the crowded hospital; whether on the long and weary march, or before the enemy's guns, they have been true to the name and fame of their noble country. But sadly do we turn to the heroic dead! Sadly would we touch the strings that vibrate only to plaintive notes. Husband—father—brother—son—the loved—the fondly cherished! Nobly have they fallen, and in a glorious cause. Their country called, and in the great cause of humanity, they died; and, though on a distant soil, far away from home and friends, yet ever fresh will be their memories in the hearts of the living and the loved.

"Thou wert sweet, indeed, to close our eyes And waded upward by their sighs, So to some calmer sphere, But whether on the scaffold high, Or in the battles van, The fittest place for man to die, Is where he dies for man."

A. T. H.

At the Brown House, Athens, O., Jan. 29, 1864, EDWARD H. GUTHRIE, in the 31st year of his age.

After all marks of respect had been paid to his remains by the Professors and students of the College, they were brought to his father, Mr. T. Guthrie. On the second of February, they were taken to Clay Chapel, where a sermon was preached by the Rev. W. J. Griffith, to a large congregation of sorrowing relations and sympathizing friends. None knew him but to love him. He died in peace with God and man.

At Larkinsville, Alabama, on the 5th inst., of Cholera Disagree, Sergeant Wm. Henry

RECEIVED, aged 23 years, 4 months, and 24 days.

He was a member of Company I, 4th Regiment Va. Vol. Infantry.

Thus has another of our young men fallen a victim to this unholly disease against freedom and liberty, and his parents and friends called on to mourn his loss. Few, if any of our young men of Gallipolis, excelled Sergeant Reeves in morality and gentlemanly deportment. He entered the service from a conscientious sense of duty, and while health and strength were given him, performed his duty as a brave and gallant soldier. His remains were brought home and interred in the Cemetery at Gallipolis, whether they were followed by a large concourse of citizens—Due honors were paid him by the Trumbull Guards.
